GORDON S. JACKSON

Gordon S. Jackson is a professor of Communication Studies at Whitworth University in Spokane, Washington. Born in South Africa, he has traveled extensively, including an around the world voyage as a faculty member for Semester at Sea.

He received his undergraduate education in South Africa and a Master's from Wheaton College, in Illinois. He worked as a journalist in Johannesburg, before completing his doctorate in Mass Communication at Indiana University.

Jackson's teaching interests include media law, free speech, and censorship issues. When on the road, he continues to add to an extensive collection of photographs of misleading, quirky or otherwise unusual signs.

Jackson is married to Sue, a South African who helps to keep his accent honest. They have two adult children, Sarah and Matthew.
